MIME, ALDA
HERE TO SING
AS 'GILDA'

The soprano role of "Rigoletto," which will be given for the first time at the Boston Opera House to-night, will be sung by Miss Frances Alda, of whom much has been said and great things are expected. Miss Alda will sing Gilda, a part which has been a favorite with the greatest operatic prima donnas, and that Mr. Kuhnau has chosen this opera for her debut indicates that he has no fear for her success. She was born in New Zealand to English parents, but she has sung at the principal European opera houses and has achieved a reputation which has crossed in Boston last year with the Manhattan Opera Company, and he will be singing the roles of Clelio and two years ago with the St. Louis Opera, where Victor Maurel played the part of Clelio.

Baklanoff, the Russian baritone, who was featured in the production of La Gioconda and Aida, will be heard tonight as Illegitimate. Among the other members of the company will be the Russian tenors and Swartz and Nievette, American sopranos, and Indiana and St. Louis, American contraltos.

The famous Traviata by Donna E. Mobil for tenor is one of Constantino's greatest triumphs. He has sung it in the Metropolitan house to a storm of bravos and hurrahs.

Eugene Bronskaya, the Russian soprano, who sang Pagliacci last week, was prevented by sudden illness, making it necessary to change the program. Traviata at the opera concert last night. Maria Bronskaya proved to have a clear, strong, and beautiful range which she used with much skill.

BOUTS CARDED FOR THE WEEK

Kid Perron, a recent graduate from the "Armory College," will be quite busy Thursday "afternoon" and evening. Singing from the Armory, "The Kid" has changed his name. He now wishes to be known as Francis. In the "afternoon" Francis will meet an unknown at Woolsocket, R. I. In the evening he will journey to Lawrence. There he will entertain the John of New York. They will meet at Jim Griffin's Unity Cycle Club.

An effort will be made to buy the Boston National League club from John Dorcey according to a well founded story which comes from New York, the baseball headquarters for hatching new deals.

The annual meeting of the National League will be held in Gotham early next month, and it is rumored among the major league magazines that during the conference the future ownership of the Boston club will come up for consideration.

According to the rumors the majority of

The National League men desire that the club be secured by some big moneyed interests and the magnates will advise President John Dorey to sell out his holdings.

Dorey controls the biggest amount of stock in the club, as his brother's share is reverted to him at the latter's death, and he is therefore in position to dictate the future of the club.

There is not a more popular owner of any league club than John Dorey and he has done a lot of hustling to put a strong team at the South Boston grounds, but financial success eludes him. He is suffering from hard luck and lack of funds to secure big class talent.

It is said that there is a man who represents the Boston syndicate who will be ready to assume whole control of the club any day.

That Mike Schreck is sincere in his avowed belief that by careful training and fighting and strict attention to business he can gain the topmost rung of the pugilistic ladder, is conclusively proved by the fact alone that he so readily consented to meet Sam Langford next Tuesday night.

Any fight promoter in the country who bears witness to the fact that securing an opponent for Langford is almost a hopeless task. The man who lay claim to the title refuse to take any chances against

It follows then that Schreck has something on a great many other fighters in the world. He is a real talker. He isn't taking on Langford in Pittsburgh just to show that he has the nerve. The Cincinnati men do not catch a beating and lose an attorney, and a fight is arranged to meet Langford because he actually be-
